Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the Members of the School Board:

GENTLEMEN:

There have been many changes and improvements in our schools during the past year which this report aims to note in brief and to indicate the significance which they may have for the advancement of education among our young people.

The report of a year ago referred to the unusually crowded condition of the village school, especially in the primary room. This room was relieved at the beginning of this school year by dividing it and placing the second grade in a room by itself under charge of Miss Gladys Biathrow, while the first grade were also given a separate room under charge of a new teacher added to our corps, Miss Janet Chalmers of Concord, who has proved herself already a very valuable teacher. Room for this additional school was provided by finishing off a temporary room in the attic of the high school wing and fitting it for the use of the high school science classes. The room thus vacated by the high school on the second floor is occupied by the grammar school thus leaving all four rooms on the ground floor for the use of the elementary grades. These grades are now situated in the building as follows: Grade I and Grade II in the two rooms of the wing, Grades III and IV and Grades V and VI in the two rooms in the main part of the building.

The present arrangement is however, merely a temporary makeshift and cannot serve our purpose longer than this year for two reasons:

FIRST, the amount and quality of the science work which high school pupils can do in the present quarters is altogether inadequate and science teaching is coming to fill an entirely too large and important position in the curricula of high school to be relegated to an inferior position and done with inadequate equipment in our own high school. The school imperatively needs a science laboratory and work shop.

SECOND, the rooms housing the higher primary and the intermediate grades are already filled to utmost capacity, and with the promotion of the present large second grade into one of these rooms next year the grades will have to be divided and another teacher employed.

We still have before us an acute building problem.

There are in operation two more schools than last year; the one at Jones Hill was opened in September, after having been closed for many years, and an additional room was necessitated at the village to accommodate an increased number of pupils. There are fourteen teachers in all and 307 pupils were enrolled in September. Of our teachers it will be noted from the accompanying table that two are college graduates and three are graduates of normal schools. The others have had considerable college and normal school work so that it is evident that they are professionally well equipped for their work. Four of the nine elementary schools of last year have experienced a change of teachers—not quite a 50 per cent turn-over but a very high proportion, nevertheless. In the High School two of the three teachers are new to the school this year, but not inexperienced in teaching. For the most part the work done in the grades is good. There are, known, many things to be desired and on the whole it is felt that considerable more ground should be covered in a year than is the case at present. The scholarship of the school is fair in many instances very good. There is much left to work for and it is earnestly hoped that parents generally will support the teachers in their strenuous efforts for a better and more thorough education throughout our schools.

A test given to all eighth grade pupils last November has occasioned much comment throughout the State. These test papers consisted of eight fairly simple examples in arithmetic and twenty ordinary words in spelling. The average number of examples worked correctly throughout the state was 49 per cent.; in the case of the spelling pupils attained a 67 per cent efficiency. Of course such an average, for pupils who are in many instances ending their school life, is ridiculously low. The pupils in the eighth grades of Enfield stood 66 per cent in arithmetic and 78 per cent in spelling, which is not to be considered satisfactory although much better than the State average. There were seventy-three towns and cities in the State whose pupils attained an average of 75 per cent and above in spelling. It may be interesting to compare the standing of the four towns which comprise this superintendency union in these respects.

District	No. of Pupils taking tests	Average rating
		Arithmetic	Spelling
		Per cent.	Per cent.
Canaan	14	50	69 2-7
Enfield	18	66	78
Orange	3	66 2-3	58 2-3
Springfield	5	100	86

Later these same tests in arithmetic were given to the fourteen freshmen in the high school and the average of accuracy was 65 per cent—slightly lower than the present eighth grade.

The same spelling test was given to the entire high school, forty pupils. The percent of accuracy for the entire school was  $66\frac{3}{8}$  per cent. Not a very impressive showing for a high school.

Still later a test in arithmetic and spelling was given to the sophomore class in the high school. The arithmetic test consisted in set examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, with work in fractions, decimals, United States money and denominate numbers included under each. Ten pupils took the test. The percent of accuracy was: Addition, 89; Subtraction,  $91\frac{1}{3}$ ; Multiplication, 80; Division,  $79\frac{1}{3}$ .

In the spelling test, of twenty-five ordinary words, the percent of accuracy for the entire school was 80.4.

In another place will be found the report of the principal of the High School. It is worth your careful attention. Work in the high school has been much speeded up during the present year and commendable work is being done. We have received very favorable comment for the high school from the State department of education during the year, noting the improvement made in the condition of the school.

At the beginning of the present school year certain steps were taken looking toward the organization of the four classes of the present high school with the seventh and eighth grades as a six-year high school. These steps provide for the teaching of certain subjects in the grammar room by the members of the high school faculty and for the teaching of certain subjects in the high school by the grammar school teacher.

Arithmetic is now being taught in Grade VIII by Miss Emmons, English by Miss Wilmot, History by Mr. Lamplough; while Mr. Gibb teaches French and Latin in the high school. None of the high school subjects have as yet been carried back to the grammar grades but it is hoped and expected next year to have elementary French and either elementary Algebra or Latin or Bookkeeping taught to members of the eighth grade and possibly the seventh.

It is considered a great advantage, both to the high school and the grammar grades to have them thus linked together in the same organization and the general order of the building has been thereby greatly improved.

In closing, this report on the condition of our schools mention must be made of the subject—tardiness at school. Nothing in school management is more aggravating to teachers and school board alike than the habit of coming to school late. Last year the schools in the village were extremely bad in this respect. Many pupils seemed to feel no responsibility whatever for being promptly in their places at the opening of the sessions and it is to be feared that some parents gave this matter too little heed.

This year has marked an effective “drive” toward eliminating the tardy work from our school records. The results are not yet entirely satisfactory, but so much has been accomplished that it is sincerely hoped that all concerned will take an interest in working together to complete the work. Our high school last year was severely censured by the State department of education because of the curse of tardiness among the pupils. Such a condition of affairs has been known to cause the State Board to drop high schools from the approved list. The following table will show the comparative standing of the schools in this respect at the end of the first twenty weeks in February, 1923, and February, 1924.

School	Number of Tardiness
	Feb. 1923	Feb. 1924
High	54	49
Grade 8	44	22
Grade 7	114	6
Grade 6	67	22
Grade 5	68	18
Grade 4	91	8
Grade 3	27	34
Grade 2	123	32
Grade 1	69	25

While it cannot be said that the present record is as good as we should reasonably expect it is encouraging to note the rate of progress toward the time when a tardy arrival at school shall be a rare occurrence.

In closing this report I wish to express my appreciation of the many courtesies extended to me in my work and the helpful co-operation shown by teachers, school board and citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

H. H. PRATT.

Headmaster's Report

ENFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

To Mr. H. H. PRATT Superintendent of Schools :

I herewith submit the report for the Enfield High School for the school year of 1923-1924.

The entire teaching staff started at the beginning of the year with very definite standards in mind which they wished to establish, and with quite definite plans for doing it. Much has been accomplished as a result of keeping these ideals constantly before the school. The courses in Algebra and Geometry and many irregularities in individual progress will be taken care of this year. There are many other gratifying evidences of improvement along various lines, all of which will tend to raise the general standards of the school. It will be impossible, however, to realize complete fruition of all our ideals this year. It must be a gradual process of consistent and progressive development.

The space available for high school use is deficient in arrangement, in class room facilities and in amount. In place of the room given over to the seventh and eighth grades, we have acquired one which no progressive community would expect to use except as a temporary provision.

If desirable standards in scholarship are to be attained, there is urgent need of more room and of another teacher. There should be sufficient space provided to allow for a study room in which very few, if any, classes would be conducted. Although familiar with the facts, we have conducted experiments this year which prove conclusively that pupils do not respond as well to instruction; that they fail to attain as high a rank in recitations and do not take as active a part in discussions when the class work is carried on in the same room with other pupils as when they have a room to themselves. The lack of application on the part of those pupils studying in a room where other classes are reciting is very noticeable as compared with the result when the room is used for study purposes only. Furthermore, teachers cannot give the same attention to classes while supervising a study room as they can give when relieved of this extra duty.

A study room must be properly supervised. The teachers at present are teaching every period in the day, except the Headmaster, who has one period which he uses to prepare demonstrations or laboratory work in Physics. An additional teacher would not only provide the means of supervision for a study room, but would relieve the present staff of a teaching schedule which is beyond all reason.

Up to February 8th, covering a period of twenty weeks, the high school maintained an attendance record of 96%. In the annual reports of the State Department of Education, we find that many schools in New Hampshire maintain an attendance record as high as 98%. It is my ambition to have Enfield listed with the best.

The subject of attendance is worthy of greater consideration than would be its due, if it were merely a matter of realizing an ambition. When pupils are absent or tardy, the loss sustained cannot be charged against the account of the offender alone. Such practices create an atmosphere of indifference on the part of the entire school; they materially slow up class work and lessen class accomplishments; they lower the general efficiency of the whole school in every phase of its work. The only satisfactory remedy for poor attendance is a proper attitude on the part of the parents and the influence of public sentiment. It devolves upon parents and pupils alike to make personal sacrifices, if necessary, in order to maintain a high standing in attendance. Public sentiment should be so pronounced as to make any boy or girl ashamed to be seen out of school during school hours. It takes more than money and teachers to make a school. It is not enough that the taxpayers dig down into their jeans and then do the "heavy looking on." One of the most potent factors in the successful operation of a school is the moral support of the community as a whole and of the parents in particular.

Pupils have no more right to be absent or tardy than have the teachers, or for reasons which would not justify a teacher's absence. I trust we may gradually create a little better attitude on the part of parents and pupils regarding the matter of attendance.

The condition of general scholarship in the high school is shown in the following table:

Classification of Grades	Per Cent. of Total Ranks Falling under each Classification
90 per cent or over	29 per cent.
80 to 89 per cent.	37 per cent.
70 to 79 per cent.	21 per cent.
Below 70 per cent.	13 per cent.

This table covers the first half-year's work.

There is an appalling lack of general knowledge among the pupils. In order to combat this condition we need more and better reading, especially current magazines, such as the Literary Digest and other equally good publications.

I am pleased to report that the teachers are working in a spirit of perfect harmony and co-operation. They are sparing neither time, energy or talent to overcome the handicaps they have fallen heirs to, and to make the most of what they have. The boys and girls should be commended for their response to the demands made upon them and for the way in which they adapt themselves to existing conditions.

I wish to take this opportunity of publicly expressing my appreciation of the loyalty with which the community, the school board and you have supported my administration of the Enfield High School this year.

Respectfully submitted,

W. J. LAMPLOUGH,

Headmaster.
